

Barb Barton Bio

Booking Information:

Susan Frazier, Goldenrod Music and Artist Services
PO Box 13128, Lansing MI 48901
sales@goldenrod.com
Phone: 517-484-1712 Fax: 877-546-7008

Longer version:

Barb Barton is the author of the books The Amazing Adventures of A Midwestern Girl and Manoomin: The Story of Wild Rice in Michigan. As a lifelong Michigander and an endangered species biologist by training, Barton finds boundless inspiration in the region's rich history. Manoomin traces the interwoven stories of the Anishinaabek, European colonizers, and the role native wild rice has had in shaping their shared histories. The first book of its kind, Manoomin won a 2018 Michigan History Award in the University Press/Commercial Press category as well as a 2019 Michigan Notable Book Award. For Barton, storytelling and cultural preservation are one in the same. In addition to her non-fiction books, Barton has authored articles about the complex relationships between people and food for Michigan History Magazine and The Historical Society of Michigan's Chronicle magazine. Barton also travels the state as a public speaker--and sometimes folk musician--continuing the oral traditions that have informed her research and writing. The author is currently on a book tour for Manoomin and is available for booking in the Midwest region.

Shorter Version:

Barb Barton is the author of the books The Amazing Adventures of A Midwestern Girl and Manoomin: The Story of Wild Rice in Michigan. Manoomin traces the interwoven stories of the Anishinaabek tribe, European colonizers, and the role native wild rice has had in shaping their shared histories. The first book of its kind, Manoomin won a 2018 Michigan History Award in the University Press/Commercial Press category as well as a 2019 Michigan Notable Book Award. Barton also travels the state as a public speaker--and sometimes folk musician--continuing the oral traditions that have informed her research and writing. The author is currently on a book tour for Manoomin and is available for booking in the Midwest region.